Central Life Sciences Promotes Tracy L. Harris III to Vice President of Sales for Professional Brands

Schaumburg, Ill., January 10, 2018 – Central Life Sciences, whose founders invented insect growth regulator (IGR) technology more than 45 years ago, announced the promotion of Tracy L. Harris III to Vice President of Sales for its professional brands. In his expanded role, Harris will oversee the sales leadership responsibilities for the professional pest management, vector, livestock, farm and feed, grain storage and processing, turf and ornamental, and horticulture segments. Harris has been with Central Life Sciences for more than 16 years, most recently serving as Senior Director of Sales for the Professional Agricultural Products division since 2014.

“Central Life Sciences has a team of dedicated sales professionals, and I am excited to see Tracy continue to deliver solutions to our customers through his leadership and guidance,” said Trevor Thorley, General Manager of Central Life Sciences.

Prior to joining Central Life Sciences, Harris was the Director of Sales Operations with eMerge Interactive, Inc. and was the Regional Manager for Feed Additives for Roche Vitamins, Inc. Harris earned his bachelor’s degree in Animal Science from Mississippi State University.

About Central Life Sciences

Central Life Sciences products are a part of Central Garden & Pet Company. Central Life Sciences is dedicated to creating healthier environments and making life better for people, plants and companion animals around the world. As inventors of insect growth regulator technology more than 45 years ago, the founders of Central Life Sciences pioneered biorational pest control: using the insect’s chemistry as a means to reduce pest populations.
